Why is the term "missional Christian" redundant?

Five Principles of a Missional Christian (and church):

1) Missional Christians devote themselves to

_____ (v. 2).

What is the dual purpose of prayer when it comes to Christian outreach?

2) Missional Christians aren't constrained at all by life

_____ (v. 3)

What excuses do you often give yourself for not being more missional?

3) Missional Christian living starts _____.

What does the order and structure of Colossians tell us about Paul's understanding of this?

4) Missional Christians think of _____ before
_____ (v. 3, 6)

Why is listening more important than speaking when living missionally?

5) Missional Christians are constantly seeking to enter into _____.

A. Why is Rob Bell's analogy of a tour guide probably more helpful than our current usage of the word missionary?

B. How does Bridge of Hope already hold a massive evangelistic crusade every week?

"Missions then is less about the transportation of God from one place to another and more about the identification of a God who is already there."
